My son is turning 4 in March and we are planning to have a sleepover at our house, a party at a park, and a baby shower in two weeks at a friend's house. We are expecting 20+ kids between our friend's house and the sleepover. The only party we plan on is the one at our friend's house. My son is hyperactive and this makes my son very emotional. We usually have a half hour to an hour of activities once we get home and then he has a meltdown. It's usually once a week or so. We have gone to one party together. My son has never even seen the baby shower. At the sleepover, we plan on going swimming. I think we will give everyone who wants to bring their own pool-side toys to play with. My son is always around other kids anyway so I think he won't have any problem socializing with them. I am fine with us not going to the baby shower, but my husband wants to go. I 82157476af
